

BARNARD GIRLS IN PLAY AS ANIMALS

Students Give a Dippydrome
Circus and Roar and Cavort at Will.

CROWS FROM A ROOSTER

Miss Yellat Is There with Her Lions and so Is Shivers and Famous Vaseline.

ELEPHANTS' LEGS TANGLED

One Lone Man Sees the Show and Another
Had Planned to Do So, but
Was Banished.

Girls were transformed yesterday into lions, monkeys and elephants when the class 1906 of Barnard College gave a circus. The institution needs a dormitory and whenever anything difficult is to be done in this city the first thought is "The elephants will help."

That is the reason the Dippydrome was turned loose in the assembly hall, Broadway and 116th street. Five hundred women and one eminently proper property man witnessed the performance. There might have been two of the men assistants, but the other who was to have helped with the accoutrements admitted he was not married and was sent into banishment.

This was a "College Circus on the Mundaane Sphere," as contrasted with "A Yankee Circus on Mars," from which its furnishings and accoutrements were borrowed for the occasion, together with Joseph Demody, who was sent to take care of them and to tend his professional advice. The Dippydrome was divided into two agencies and the cast included practically every young woman of the class.

Columbia Is Flaggled.
The marvelous aggregation of talent got under way at three o'clock in the afternoon. Scouts and advance agents were sent with red flags in every direction to warn away Columbia students in disguise and all tickets were carefully scrutinized, for it was the understanding that all offered by masqueraders were to be rejected at the door.

The band began to play promptly on the minutes, and the freaks who were reduced to their unfortunate condition by overstudy first went the round of the arena. There was a whirling dervishes who from much meditation on the subject of perpetual motion had reached the abnormal state. The girl who had refused to go to a matinee, the electric wonder who sought to blow out the incandescent globes and the tattooed man were all in that solemn march. The animal king, the foe of wild cats and mountain lions, King Theodore I., who had gleaming teeth and eyeglasses, told of his prowess. In real life he is Miss Jennie Roy.

Billy Rooster, with bill and towering comb and flapping wings, acted as ring master of the show. The role was taken by Miss Lillian Cossan, author of the libretto, and she kept even the elephants in order. The Bogie Man towered high in air and the clowns in their tightly fitted garb performed bewildering antics which took the house by storm.

Vaseline, in whom the discerning public recognized the agile Marcelline, appeared in perfect makeup of chalk and red eye-brow and one of the girls, Miss Eva von Baur, who was also the stage manager of the circus, was responsible for his appearance. Miss Flossie Wald gave a realistic imitation of Shivers, which was called Shivers, and received without a shudder.

Classical Elephants.
The stage was cleared, the drums were beaten in a long roll and the four classical elephants, bearing upon the blankets the names and the numbers of the four members of the college, made their appearance. Some of them were actuated by a subliminal consciousness over which they had no control, and as the young woman who furnished the motive power could not see the pachyderms seemed to be stampeding in a different direction at every corner.

One pair of legs ran across the path of all the others and seemed permanently dislocated. One elephant limped with a broken back and another from much wagging lost his tail. The quartet finally got in line, however, and side by side, danced a quadrille, and bowed itself out amid prolonged applause.

Six branches of the family tree in a similar garb, which was meant for smaller types, danced in a jungle two-step. Their motions were often constrained and the manager was heard seven times promising to make a pass with their paws at their trainer. One of them finally kicked out Miss Yellat, known in private life as Miss Adelaide Richardson, and carried her off the stage despite her insistent cries for help. The dancers and Vaseline and Vaseline and the baller by the six little ponies received many encores.

Among those who took part in the circus curriculum were the Misses Cossan, Smith, Swenson, Leeburg, Woodhall, Oppenheim, Demore, Krenn, Gold, Berg, Lee, Stanton, Thompson, Kupfer, Rike, Scheuer, Connor, Dryer, Boas, Ingalls, Carroll, Vimsey, Wolf, Bugbee, Richardson, Von Baur and Wyell.

The entertainment will be repeated this afternoon and all women and fathers having twenty-five cents will be admitted.

THREATS TO BLOW UP HOME.

Mrs. Edward Milner Receives Mysterious Letters Demanding
Large Sums of Money.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.]
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Friday.—Threats to blow up her house with dynamite if she did not leave a sum of money where the plotters could get it have been received by Mrs. Milner, wife of Edward Milner, of Moosup, Conn. Mr. Milner is a director of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

While he was absent from Moosup on business demands came by mail, posted in Danielson, Conn., that a large amount of money be placed on the steps of a school house near the Milner mansion.

As efforts are being made to run down the plotters, the details of the threats are not made known by detectives working on the case.

DR. FRANK J. FREEL DIES.

Son of Former Brooklyn Contractor
Victim of Typhoid Pneumonia
at Country Home.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.]
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Friday.—Dr. Frank J. Freel, son of the late Edward Freel, of Brooklyn, who built the Ridgewood reservoir, died to-day at his cottage in Stony Creek, Conn. He was forty years old. Typhoid pneumonia caused his death.

Dr. Freel's mother, Catherine J. Freel, who resides in New York, recently tried to have him committed to a sanitarium, alleging that he was a dipsomaniac. Dr. Freel contested the proceedings, which were finally withdrawn. Recently the Supreme Court of Brooklyn sustained Dr. Freel in his fight for the right to act as one of the executors of his father's estate.

BARNARD GIRLS PLAYING PRANKS IN THEIR "CIRCUS."

AMMONIA THROWER ON ROLLER SKATES

"John Doe" Expected to Gild
Freedom After Attacking Post
& McCord Paymaster.

HE IS HELD FOR TRIAL IN $2,500

Magistrate Cornell Says Prisoner Ought to Get Forty Years if What Has Been Told Him Is True.

"John Doe," the mysterious man who attempted to destroy the sight of William A. Maloney, paymaster for Post & McCord, on Thursday, by throwing ammonia into his face, was held in $2,500 bail for trial by Magistrate Cornell in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday.

During the examination the interesting information came out that "Doe" was equipped with roller skates when he made the assault and handled himself so dexterously on them that he came near escaping his pursuers.

Robert C. Post, of Post & McCord, said: "Maloney tells us that the man on skates came swooping around the corner like an eagle and hurled the contents of the bottle into his face as he made a quick turn on the pavement. Then he darted away with unusual speed. He wore skates with unusual speed. He wore skates with unusual speed. He wore skates with unusual speed."

Silent and sullen, "John Doe" refused to give any further information about himself, except that he was "John Doe," of San Francisco.

Magistrate Cornell said he regarded him as a desperate character who should be at large, and that he hoped the police would discover whether or not he was brought to this city to take part in the strike. Besides the ammonia, the man had a piece of loaded lead pipe and was apparently prepared for a more complete job than he succeeded in doing.

"You are a man who should be in prison," said the Magistrate, "for a person of your character is a great menace to your community. You ought to get forty years if what has been stated is the truth."

Mainey, while showing some effects of the ammonia burns on his neck and hands, considers that he escaped very luckily. He has shown every consideration possible to the strikers," he told the Magistrate, "and have even gone so far as to aid them financially. I now believe that my life is in danger and I shall protect myself as best I can."

DYING FROM ODD ACCIDENT.

One Man Falls to Bottom of Elevator
Shaft, but in Flight Saves
Comrade's Life.

John Sonkup, twenty-eight years old, address unknown, is dying in Roosevelt Hospital with a fractured skull and William Kearns, twenty-nine, of No. 7 West Ninety-third street, is in the same hospital with a scalp wound and bruises, as the result of a peculiar and unexplained accident in the elevator shaft of the new twelve story building on the southeast corner of Seventh and Broadway streets.

Both men are employed by the Otis Elevator Company and were working on a scaffold across the shaft at the fourth story when they fell. Sonkup fell to the bottom of the shaft and landed on a piece of wood an inch thick was driven into his skull at the bridge of his nose. Both eyes were destroyed and his skull was penetrated to such a depth that his death is certain.

Kearns escaped with slight injuries in a curious way. Sonkup's body, falling with his, struck him at the moment the drop caused him to curl up from the perpendicular into the open door on the third floor. He fell over the edge, but managed to hold on and save himself from following Sonkup.

GRAND JURY HEARS OF MANN.

Belief Is That It Is Considering
Charge of Perjury Against Him.

Although the hearing of a charge of perjury made against Colonel W. D. Mann, editor and publisher of Town Topics, was to be continued before Judge McAvoy, sitting as a magistrate, on Monday next, it is doubtful if there will be any need of going on with it.

The Grand Jury took up the case yesterday and while this inquiry may be based on another phase of the matter and new charges brought, it is believed it will deal with the perjury charge.

Annual Music Ride and Circus.

In Central Park Riding Academy the Saddle and Bridle Club will give its fourth annual music ride and an amateur circus this evening. Among those who will take part in the circus will be Ruth Lockwood, giving his female impersonation of Mlle. Onanaga. The McClintock brothers will do some lanky tumbling. J. F. McCure and John Schuyler Casey will act as clowns.

There will be a Roman race between Messrs. Keating and Wainwright. Messrs. Lang and Smith will exhibit an exhibition of pony express riding. Mr. Schwere will do a high school riding act.

WOMAN HELD AS LACE SMUGGLER

Mrs. Margaret Mulhall, Dressmaker,
Is Searched on Vessel's Arrival and Arrested.

CLOTHING CAUSES SUSPICION

Inspector Has Women Assistants Examine
Her Personal Apparel, and Smuggling Charge Follows.

Charged with trying to smuggle in furs and laces worth about $1,000, Mrs. Margaret Mulhall, a passenger on the Baltic, of the White Star line, was arrested shortly after that vessel's arrival yesterday.

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields Mrs. Mulhall was held in $2,500 bail for further examination. Mrs. Mulhall is said to be a dressmaker with a fashionable clientele. The furs and laces which she is charged with bringing in undeclared were found by two women inspectors. It is said that when Mrs. Mulhall's baggage was examined she declared a quantity of laces and a lot of dress models that were in her trunks, which were sent to the public stores, on her person she declared articles of clothing worth about two hundred dollars.

Inspector Haag-Kiewit decided to have a search made, and when this was done, according to the complaint, a valuable lace cloak, several other articles of costly lace and pieces of fur were found under her outer clothing.

Jerome Hess represented Mrs. Mulhall before the United States Commissioner and asked for a light bail bond, declaring his client had done no wrong. Mrs. Mulhall, who seemed greatly embarrassed at her position, readily furnished bail.

SAVED BY SKIN GRAFTING.

Wreck Victim Presents Memorial to Lodge in Appreciation of Aid of Its Members.

In grateful recognition of self-sacrifice made by members of the organization when he was apparently dying from frightful burns received in the Jersey Central wreck at Westfield, three years ago, when twenty-three persons were killed, Wilson Frederick, of Dunellen, N. J., presented to Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., of Plainfield, last night an engraved testimonial which told of his terrible experience and restoration to health.

It was signed by seventy members of the Masonic fraternity, who had given pieces of outsize to cover scalded portions of his body and bore the names of Dr. Albert Pitts and other physicians who had performed the operation.

Frederick was one of the worst injured in the collision. It was thought there was no chance of his living, but pieces of skin were taken from the legs of 172 men and grafted on the injured man.

WATCHMEN FLEE FROM GHOST

Refuse to Stay in Factory Where Man Was Killed—Say They See Apparition.

WANTED—A watchman who is not afraid of ghosts.

The Bulls Ferry Chemical Company, of Shadydale, N. J., near Union Hill, is looking for such a man.

Several different men have taken the job in the last three weeks and quit after a few weeks ago. They were all addressed to the company and told the reason until Thursday.

John Hummel was killed by an explosion in the factory three years ago, and the watchmen say they have seen his ghost. They say that when on their rounds at night they have seen a man appear, sometimes in the laboratory and at other times in the machinery, and emit fearful shrieks.

UNION LABOR DECISION.

Connecticut Hat Firm's Case Remanded by Higher Court for Retrial.

HARTFORD, Conn., Friday.—In the Supreme Court of Errors a decision has been rendered in the so-called conspiracy case of Martin Lawlor and others against Charles H. Merritt & Sons, hat makers, finding error.

This was a suit brought by Lawlor and the United Hatters' Union for a permanent restraining order against the use of the union label on the goods of the firm. The plaintiffs contended that the firm had no right to continue the use of the label after it had declared its establishment an "open shop." The defendants asked for an injunction to prevent the plaintiffs from continuing the use of the label. The case is ordered remanded.

NEW MEN FOR ALL TENDERLOIN POSTS

Entire Personnel in All the Police Stations To Be Changed by Sweeping Order.

ONE POLICEMAN IS MISSING

William McGuire, Said To Have Been Implicated in the Claiche Exposures,
Has Disappeared.

Police Commissioner Bingham will continue his housecleaning on Monday or Tuesday. If the programme which he mapped out yesterday afternoon goes through there will be an entire set of new men in the station houses of the Tenderloin District.

Working with extreme care to obtain evidence against men who have been reported to him by the District Attorney's office as being implicated in the charges made by Bertha Claiche, Mr. Bingham has refused to make any public statement concerning the transfers he made several days ago. He knows some of the men who will fall under the ban are innocent, but he has decided to take no chances in cleaning the Tenderloin.

On what day he will issue his orders for new men to take the places of the old in the West Thirtieth, West Thirty-seventh and West Forty-seventh street stations is not known, but the order will be issued within a few days.

It is known that Mayor McClellan has interested himself personally in the statements that policemen, some of whom were connected with the vice squad, have been leaving revenue through disreputable women.

One policeman, William McGuire, said to have been implicated by Bertha Claiche, has been missing since Monday night. He and members of his family have been searching everywhere for him. On Monday, according to a statement made by Mrs. McGuire, he was reported to be at his home and has not since been heard from.

Mrs. McGuire said to a Herald reporter yesterday that she asked her husband for his pay on Monday at noon. He turned upon her angrily and said he had not received the money, although on the Friday before he is supposed to have drawn his monthly wages.

On what day he will issue his orders for new men to take the places of the old in the West Thirtieth, West Thirty-seventh and West Forty-seventh street stations is not known, but the order will be issued within a few days.

It is known that Mayor McClellan has interested himself personally in the statements that policemen, some of whom were connected with the vice squad, have been leaving revenue through disreputable women.

One policeman, William McGuire, said to have been implicated by Bertha Claiche, has been missing since Monday night. He and members of his family have been searching everywhere for him. On Monday, according to a statement made by Mrs. McGuire, he was reported to be at his home and has not since been heard from.

Mrs. McGuire said to a Herald reporter yesterday that she asked her husband for his pay on Monday at noon. He turned upon her angrily and said he had not received the money, although on the Friday before he is supposed to have drawn his monthly wages.

On what day he will issue his orders for new men to take the places of the old in the West Thirtieth, West Thirty-seventh and West Forty-seventh street stations is not known, but the order will be issued within a few days.

It is known that Mayor McClellan has interested himself personally in the statements that policemen, some of whom were connected with the vice squad, have been leaving revenue through disreputable women.

One policeman, William McGuire, said to have been implicated by Bertha Claiche, has been missing since Monday night. He and members of his family have been searching everywhere for him. On Monday, according to a statement made by Mrs. McGuire, he was reported to be at his home and has not since been heard from.

Mrs. McGuire said to a Herald reporter yesterday that she asked her husband for his pay on Monday at noon. He turned upon her angrily and said he had not received the money, although on the Friday before he is supposed to have drawn his monthly wages.

STOWAWAY GONE, ERBARNOT,

Stewards of the Baltic Say Palliser
Committed Suicide by Drowning in Wake of Liner.

"SCHEME," OFFICERS ASSERT

They Declare Story of Man's Death Was
Told to Allow Him to Escape
to the Republic.

Whether William Palliser, a stowaway in the Baltic, jumped overboard on Thursday was a subject on which there were two opinions when the big White Star liner docked yesterday morning.

Stewards of the vessel said the man had gone overboard and that he had left a melancholy note of farewell. He had climbed over the side of the vessel, they asserted, and allowed himself to be "drowned" by the suction of the twin screws. Officers of the ship branded the story as a "fake" and insisted it had been told to allow Palliser, who was formerly a steward on the Republic, of the same line, an opportunity to escape to that vessel when the Baltic docked. One officer said he had seen the stowaway dodge around a deckhouse toward the sternage Thursday night.

It was presumed that Palliser, knowing of a $500 penalty which must be paid to the United States government by steamship lines for every stowaway escaping, thought that if a story of his suicide could be entered on his ship's papers there would be no search for him. All exits from the Baltic were carefully watched until after the Republic sailed, at three o'clock, but last night his whereabouts were still a mystery.

CAR PICKPOCKET CONVICTED.

Is Sentenced to Four Years and Three Months' Imprisonment in
Fifteen Minutes.

It was rapid transit justice that Frank Preston, a pickpocket, better known as "Peggy" Bingham, encountered yesterday, for twice in fifteen minutes he was sentenced to imprisonment. He will not have a chance to break the law again for four years and three months.

Prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Garvan, he was convicted before Judge Cowling, in General Sessions Court, of having stolen a diamond stud from Willis I. McCullough, of No. 148 West Fourth street, in a street car on February 12. Judge Cowling at once sentenced him to imprisonment for two years and six months. Then Preston was taken before Judge McMahon and convicted for stealing a diamond pin from Louis Pulvermacher, of No. 186½ Bergen street, Brooklyn, on a Madison avenue car on October 29. He was sentenced to prison for one year and nine months.

DEATH RATHER THAN RUSSIA.

Man Accused of Larceny Declares He
Never Will Cross the Frontier Alive.

"Never will I be taken to Russia alive," exclaimed Felix Gadis, a Russian immigrant, yesterday, when arraigned for the third time before United States Commissioner Shields, on a charge of larceny, preferred by the Russian Consul General.

"I know too well what would await me," he added, "once back in Russia they would discharge me on the complaint of taking these bonds from the man I never saw or worked for. Then I would be rearrested at once on a political warrant, and it would be the knotted and salted knot for me. I will never cross the Russian frontier, you can depend on that."

It is said the Russian government wants to send Gadis back to Russia to tell who the conspirators were who met in the home of General Lezonsky, now a refugee, where Gadis was employed as a servant.

WISHES PRISONER KEPT HERE

District Attorney's Representative
Opposes Extradition of C. H. Henderson to West Virginia.

Charles A. Henderson, under arrest here as a fugitive from justice in Wheeling, W. Va., where he has been indicted on a charge of swindling William P. Hubbard, a wealthy lawyer, was held yesterday in the Tombs Court in $5,000 bail, which was furnished.

Assistant District Attorney Garvan said in court that he believed the charge against Henderson was not brought in good faith. Henderson was an official of the defunct International Mercantile Agency, whose head was Thomas N. McCauley. McCauley was indicted on Henderson's complaint and forfeited $10,000 bail and disappeared. If Henderson should be extradited to West Virginia it would damage the case against McCauley, who is believed to be in this country.

Henderson will oppose extradition.

FAVORS ANTI-SMOKE LEAGUE.

Charles T. Barney Appoints Secretary
to Receive Complaints of
Violations of Law.

Charles T. Barney, a leader in a crusade against the smoke nuisance, is determined that no efforts shall be spared to end the evil and has detailed a secretary to receive complaints about violations of the ordinance. Such communications should be addressed to his offices in the Empire Building, No. 71 Broadway. He suggested yesterday the formation of an anti-smoke league and said:

"I see we have at last forced Dr. Darlington to acknowledge that the present laws are sufficient. If executed, to suppress the smoke nuisance. The work is only common sense, however, as Dr. Darlington made a similar show of activity about a year ago which quickly died out. He must be held to the mark now."

Blowing up by dynamite of a train load of non-union miners at Independence, Colorado, is described in the SUNDAY HERALD by Harry Greiner, of the Western Miners' Union.

DEPARTMENT STORE BRIDE.

Miss Davis, Daughter of Watchman at Bloomingdales', Married at Midnight in the Establishment.

Miss Mary Davis, daughter of the chief night watchman at Bloomingdales' store, who has been at his post for ten years, will have the reputation of being the first "department store bride."

Because of the fact that the prospective husband was unable to get away from his work in the day a wedding was planned in the big store. It was celebrated Thursday at midnight in the music room, with twelve wedding guests present.

As the ceremony concluded Joseph Reilly, superintendent of the store, walked in upon the surprised party and, after explanation, invited all down to the grocery department where a wedding feast of cakes and wines was spread.

Convicted of Abandoning Child.

David Roth is the first man convicted under the new law which makes it a felony for parents to abandon a child in destitute circumstances. He was found guilty before Judge O'Sullivan, in General Sessions Court yesterday, when he was punished by imprisonment for two years and a fine of $1,000. His wife, Ethel, was the complainant against him.

STOWAWAY GONE, ERBARNOT,

Stewards of the Baltic Say Palliser
Committed Suicide by Drowning in Wake of Liner.

"SCHEME," OFFICERS ASSERT

They Declare Story of Man's Death Was
Told to Allow Him to Escape
to the Republic.

Whether William Palliser, a stowaway in the Baltic, jumped overboard on Thursday was a subject on which there were two opinions when the big White Star liner docked yesterday morning.

Stewards of the vessel said the man had gone overboard and that he had left a melancholy note of farewell. He had climbed over the side of the vessel, they asserted, and allowed himself to be "drowned" by the suction of the twin screws. Officers of the ship branded the story as a "fake" and insisted it had been told to allow Palliser, who was formerly a steward on the Republic, of the same line, an opportunity to escape to that vessel when the Baltic docked. One officer said he had seen the stowaway dodge around a deckhouse toward the sternage Thursday night.

It was presumed that Palliser, knowing of a $500 penalty which must be paid to the United States government by steamship lines for every stowaway escaping, thought that if a story of his suicide could be entered on his ship's papers there would be no search for him. All exits from the Baltic were carefully watched until after the Republic sailed, at three o'clock, but last night his whereabouts were still a mystery.

CAR PICKPOCKET CONVICTED.

Is Sentenced to Four Years and Three Months' Imprisonment in
Fifteen Minutes.

It was rapid transit justice that Frank Preston, a pickpocket, better known as "Peggy" Bingham, encountered yesterday, for twice in fifteen minutes he was sentenced to imprisonment. He will not have a chance to break the law again for four years and three months.

Prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Garvan, he was convicted before Judge Cowling, in General Sessions Court, of having stolen a diamond stud from Willis I. McCullough, of No. 148 West Fourth street, in a street car on February 12. Judge Cowling at once sentenced him to imprisonment for two years and six months. Then Preston was taken before Judge McMahon and convicted for stealing a diamond pin from Louis Pulvermacher, of No. 186½ Bergen street, Brooklyn, on a Madison avenue car on October 29. He was sentenced to prison for one year and nine months.

DEATH RATHER THAN RUSSIA.

Man Accused of Larceny Declares He
Never Will Cross the Frontier Alive.

"Never will I be taken to Russia alive," exclaimed Felix Gadis, a Russian immigrant, yesterday, when arraigned for the third time before United States Commissioner Shields, on a charge of larceny, preferred by the Russian Consul General.

"I know too well what would await me," he added, "once back in Russia they would discharge me on the complaint of taking these bonds from the man I never saw or worked for. Then I would be rearrested at once on a political warrant, and it would be the knotted and salted knot for me. I will never cross the Russian frontier, you can depend on that."

It is said the Russian government wants to send Gadis back to Russia to tell who the conspirators were who met in the home of General Lezonsky, now a refugee, where Gadis was employed as a servant.

WISHES PRISONER KEPT HERE

District Attorney's Representative
Opposes Extradition of C. H. Henderson to West Virginia.

Charles A. Henderson, under arrest here as a fugitive from justice in Wheeling, W. Va., where he has been indicted on a charge of swindling William P. Hubbard, a wealthy lawyer, was held yesterday in the Tombs Court in $5,000 bail, which was furnished.

Assistant District Attorney Garvan said in court that he believed the charge against Henderson was not brought in good faith. Henderson was an official of the defunct International Mercantile Agency, whose head was Thomas N. McCauley. McCauley was indicted on Henderson's complaint and forfeited $10,000 bail and disappeared. If Henderson should be extradited to West Virginia it would damage the case against McCauley, who is believed to be in this country.

Henderson will oppose extradition.

FAVORS ANTI-SMOKE LEAGUE.

Charles T. Barney Appoints Secretary
to Receive Complaints of
Violations of Law.

Charles T. Barney, a leader in a crusade against the smoke nuisance, is determined that no efforts shall be spared to end the evil and has detailed a secretary to receive complaints about violations of the ordinance. Such communications should be addressed to his offices in the Empire Building, No. 71 Broadway. He suggested yesterday the formation of an anti-smoke league and said:

"I see we have at last forced Dr. Dar